Mount St. Helens at 42: Anatomy of a Disaster

Tuesday, May 10, 6:30 p.m.
Online via Zoom

The explosive eruption of Mount St. Helens on May 18, 1980, remains a vivid memory for many people in the Pacific Northwest. But the human history of that day is less well known. Author Steve Olson, whose book Eruption: The Untold Story of Mount St. Helens won the Washington State Book Award, re-creates the events of that calm and sunny Sunday morning with photographs, maps, and the unforgettable stories of the people who experienced the greatest volcanic eruption in U.S. history.

New Exhibit!

JUNE 1, 2022 – NOVEMBER 1, 2022

Change was in the air. Everywhere. From Saigon to Seattle, Paris to Pasco. On college campuses, the campaign trail and evergreen peaks, Washingtonians were spurred to action. It was the year when Vietnam, civil rights, women's liberation, and conservation coalesced—the year when tragedy led the 6 o'clock news with numbing regularity. Nearly 50 million Baby Boomers were coming of age. The draft call for 1968 was 302,000, up 72,000 from the prior year. 1968 changed us in ways still rippling through our society a half-century later. This exhibit at the Lacey Museum is brought to you by Legacy Washington

What's Happening!

WHAT'S HAPPENING AT THE FUTURE LACEY MUSEUM & CULTURAL CENTER SITE?

Are you wondering what's happening to the old warehouse building between Pacific Ave. and Lacey Blvd. near Lebanon St.? It's coming down as part of Phase 3 of the new Lacey Museum & Cultural Center project! This phase of the project, funded by the City's second Heritage Capital Projects Grant from the Washington State Historical Society, is scheduled to finish in late spring.

The new Lacey Museum & Cultural Center has been in development for over 10 years.

What's the New Lacey Museum & Cultural Center Project?

This project is one of the City's long-term goals that's been in the works for more than a decade. The new Lacey Museum & Cultural Center will have a much-needed, larger exhibit and storage space, and expanded lobby than the current Lacey Museum. It will also include a community wing that will attract private rentals such as weddings and fundraisers, and accommodate theatre, art, dance, language, music, and cuisine classes and programs. Visitors will experience diverse cultural arts, dance, and food at the Center, in addition to wellness programs such as yoga, Pilates, and meditation. The facility will also be used for summer camps, after-school and educational programs, and community farming classes.

The new Lacey Museum & Cultural Center will be an east anchor of the City's new Depot District, which is in close proximity to Lacey's historic neighborhood and adjacent to the iconic Saint Martin's University. The Depot District will be an inviting, walkable area, with both indoor and outdoor spaces for families, students, and the community to gather.

What's Next?

Phase 4 of the Project is scheduled to take place by 2026, depending on funding.
